The Philippine currency has until quite recently been regarded as resting on a gold basis, and the Bank's funds employed in the island have been provided by drawings on London. The Spanish Go rernment, however, in the early part of the year made the Carolin dollar (which had previously circulated alike in Spain and the Philippines) uncurrent in Spain and the result was a sudden heavy full in the aterling value of the Philippine dollar, against which the Bank had no opportunity of safeguarding itself. The remainder of the provision is required to meet forther osses at the same Agency. The Bank has had to contend against many difficulties in Manila, but the irectors confidently hope that with the provisions now made the Agency will in the future hold its own. and return good profits on the capital employed.

"I never understood that such a sentiment, and all the responsibility that such a sentiment involves, was seriously questioned either here or in England. Certainly, thoold and close alliance. between our great Queen, the Haad of our State and his Imperial Majesty, who is the head of our Church, has distinctly added to our contentment and our happiness in being the subjects of Great Britain. In addition to a beneficent and enlightened rule founded on justice and good faith, we have always recognised that because we were allied to Great Britain, that therefore we secured to the faithful here an invaluable political buttress in the event of foreign aggression. And no English statesmen will ever be permitted by English public opinion to destroy such a structure, which derives it trangth, on the one hand, from a natural belief in the resources of England, and, on the other hand, from a religious faith which is ever looking westward to the shrine of St Sofia. Clearly here is a sufficient reason why England can never allow any nation to make a violent entry into Constantinople. To do so would be to wish the alienation of the sympathy and affection of the most warlike of the races of India, the very races upon whose seal England later may have to rely in order to soutrol the too progressive tendency of Russia eastward. The absurdity of any such policy does not require even to be discussed seriously. Then the opinion of the enlightened in India is that we need not expect to see any new mapping out of Europe "That is certainly our view. At least that no new maps will be made by the forces of war, though possibly in the interests of peace I-can imagine that the incessant burden of these great military preparations on the Bosphorus may be felt as a painful strain on the resources of Turkey, and that therefore the Porte might invite Austria with further guarantee of the Great Powers to an intimate cooperation with her in order to render this beautiful region secure against the northern encroschment which always threatens it. Any such arrangement would certainly be for the bonest both of the Ports and of Austria, and would be gladly accepted by nearly all of the Great Powers of Europe as it would make Turkey irresistibly strong to defend this position, and would thus secure the peace both of Eastern Europe and also of Asia.'

The Nawab proceeded to develops this idea in more precise detail. Into these particulars it would scarcely be opportune to follow his Excellency. The foregoing sufficiently indicates with what jealous regard the Moslems of British India desire the maintenance of the Ottoman Power in Europe, and what are the political buttresses which they deem most apt for its support.—Levant Herald.

A traveller in Persia relates that while on a visit to a Judge a man was brought in who stoutly denied the offence with which he was charged. This process was continued until he at last strotched out five fingers of each band when the magistrate remarked: "Good, let him go: he is' innocent." The traveller learned afterward that by raising his finger the prisoner meant the Judge to understand that he offered one tonan (about 10s.) for his release, and had been compelled to raise the amount by successive bids to ten tonans (£5) in order to satisfy the demands of Persian justice.

According to Dr. Leuf, when water is taken into the full or partly full stomach, it does not Fooshow mingle with the food, as we are generally hanghei. taught, but passes along quickly between the food and lesser curvature towards the pylorus, through which it passes into the intestines, The secretion of muous by the lining membrane is constant, and during the night a considerable amount accumulates in the stomach; some of its liquid portion is absorbed, and that which remains is thick and tenacious. If food is taken into the stomach when in this condition it becomes coated with this mucus, and the secretion of the gastrio juice and its action are delayed. These facts show the value of a goblet of water Manila 33,83 before breakfast. This washes out the tenacious Haiphons ... mucus, and stimulates the gastric glands to not be taken cold, but it may be with great Naguaki ... advantage then taken warm or hot. This re- Wiedimoval of the accumulated muons from the stomach is probably one of the reasons why taking soup at the beginning of a meal has been found so beneficial.

Says the Chico (California) Enterprise of the 2nd July:-Up at the Arcade mill, near the Sutton House, the loggers have been considerably bothered by chipmunks and mountain rats. They have been a particular source of annoyance to the Chinese cook, and he had vowed by all the gods in the Flowery Kingdom to wreak a bitter vengeance on the first maranding rodent which should fall into his clutch ... Last Tuesday, while busily engaged in cooking the hash for the morning meal, he heard a rustling noise, and on looking saw what he supposed to be a rat's head protruding through a break in the floor. Seizing a carving-fork and gliding stealthily up to the object he plunged it into its body, and with a yell of triumph uplifted the impaled animal, exclaiming "Me catchee lat." The mill boys hearing his cries rushed to the kitchen, but paused on the Treshold, for they "smelt a Carometer 20.75 29.80 -20.71 smell." About this time the Chinaman smelt | lemperature something too, dropped the fork and broke from the kitchen, packed his clothes and came to Chico Lirection of wind ... on Wednesday's stage. The boys' chaffing was too much for him. The animal which he had impaled was one of the genus known scientifical. ly as Manhiles Americans, valgarly toroised a

POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been missent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ____, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the sud.
